Scrivener

Gwen Hernandez (she/her), the author of Scrivener For Dummies, helps writers all over the world master Scrivener through online courses, in-person workshops, and private training. When she's not using Scrivener to write romantic suspense while surrounded by houseplants, this lifelong nomad likes to travel, read, run along the beach, practice tree pose, and explore her current home of Southern California.

Romance

Growing up, Gwen Hernandez (she/her) wasn't brave enough to share the stories in her head with other kids, but they usually involved intrigue and romance. She was raised in the Army and Navy, and married an Air Force engineer, so it's natural that her books often feature military heroes and heroines who must overcome danger to find true love. When she's not writing amidst a jungle of houseplants, Gwen likes to travel, read, jog, practice tree pose, and explore her current home of southern California.
